The History of the Project....

In the year 2000, the Newport News Police Department approached the Citizen Police Academy Alumni Association (CPAAA) about sponsoring a project to open a community center where the public could come and learn about the police department, community policing opportunities, and other issues relating to citizen and public safety. Out of this initial idea, the Community Education and Outreach Center (CE&OC) came into existence.

Members of the business community and individuals gave donations, materials and time to the project. Everything that you see at the museum; the facility, the furniture and the educational and historical information is a result of volunteer efforts along with hard work by the members of the Newport News Police Department.

In 2005, the CE&OC moved from its original location in Patrick Henry Mall. In August of that year the center re-opened in this historic building that once housed the Hilton Amoco Station.

In the fall of 2011 an ambitious renovation project took place to refurbish the museum area and create meeting space in the former “service” area. Through the efforts of numerous city departments and dedicated volunteers the center re-opened in April of 2012. It now serves a meeting area which can be used by civic groups. It is also a Department of Criminal Justice Services (DCJS) certified location for police training.

The center is staffed 100% by volunteers. If you would like to be part of this outreach project, please let us know! As a part of our team, you are crucial to our success!

What can we offer you?

Police Museum

Come visit our police museum. View the history of the Newport News Police Department from 1896 to present day. The center is staffed totally by volunteers and is the only one of its kind known. Visitors can view uniforms, equipment and other items from the history of the police department. Many of the items have been donated by retired officers.

Television

In the comfort of our center, you can view the city channel or request to view videos featuring such topics as crime prevention, becoming a police officer and safety tips.

Group Tours

Do you have a senior group? A scout troop? A school group? A church group, or a group of friends or neighbors? We provide personal tours upon request. We are proud of our facility, and welcome the opportunity to show it off.

Meeting Space

Looking for a space to host a civic/community meeting? The CEOC is available free of charge. Ask one of our volunteers how to reserve the space for your organization!
